2011 Edition of Visit Glendale Magazine Now Available. Along Loop 101 in Glendale and the West Valley, there are at least 101 things to do. That's according to the cover story in the hot-off-the-press issue of Visit Glendale, the official tourism magazine of the Glendale Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB).

The magazine is the bureau's latest outreach effort to build tourism in the West Valley with feature stories such as "Art & Soul: A Cultural Guide to the Region," and "Get Your Game On!" about pro sports in the West Valley.

By picking up the 2011 edition of Visit Glendale, locals can learn about the amenities and attractions that bring people from across the country to our hometown. The Visit Glendale magazine is the first published by the CVB since the bureau was launched in July.

Over the next 12 months, the bureau and its members anticipate distributing 60,000 copies of the magazine, which was printed on recycled paper. However, the bulk of the bureau's resources are online as part of its commitment to sustainability and to give the bureau instant global reach.

Outreach includes Twitter, Facebook and YouTube, but the bureau's online travel tools are popular resources, too. These include an online travel planner, e-newsletters, maps, video and photo galleries, and a virtual brochure rack. The Visit Glendale magazine is also available online. To view it, go to www.visitglendale.com. To get your own copy, stop by the Glendale Visitor Center, 5800 W. Glenn Drive, Suite 140, or to have a copy mailed call 623-930-4500.

Free HOA Training Series. Serving on a homeowners association board can be intimidating, yet to function well, boards need to have residents who are knowledgeable and willing to serve. Helping build that knowledge base and the pool of willing residents is the motivation behind the HOA training series offered by the city of Glendale starting in January.

In an effort to assist, the city began offering HOA training nine years ago. To date, 500 people have taken the training to gain the tools needed to more effectively manage and lead their HOA. The training is taught by HOA attorneys, property management professionals, city staff and other industry professionals. The classes are free to Glendale residents. The series of eight classes is $20 for non-residents.

Each class in the series focuses on a different topic. Some of the topics that will be covered include: the fundamentals of an HOA Board, an overview of Arizona's new HOA law, HOA management, and HOA budgeting. The series runs from January 25 to February 19 and includes four Tuesday evening classes from 6 – 8 p.m. and four Saturday morning classes from 9 – 11:30 a.m. All classes are held at the Glendale Adult Center, 5970 W. Brown Street. Registrations for the HOA training series are due by January 21. Early registration is encouraged as only a limited number of seats are available. To view the complete class schedule and to register for the HOA Training Academy, visit www.glendaleaz.com/education and click on "HOA Training" or call (623) 930-2868 to receive an application by mail or fax.
